Four Reasons to Thank Your Pharmacy Technician

Pharmacy technicians play a key role in supporting the profitability and the patient care experience in a pharmacy. Here are four reasons to thank your pharmacy technician:

Patient engagement

Pharmacy technicians work closely with providers to review medication side effects and discuss educational resources with patients during their visits, helping improve medication adherence and compliance.

Payer relations

Pharmacy technicians work regularly with insurance plans to help jump start the prior authorization process and find drugs covered under a patient's plan. This helps ease the financial burden for patients and allows them to start their medication regimen faster.

Financial support

Pharmacy technicians contribute in helping patients receive financial support from manufacturer drug programs and foundation or co-pay assistance.

Business-savvy

Pharmacy technicians' business acumen allows them to take on key operational and financial tasks and free up time for other clinical staff to focus on patient care.
